Boys Become Confused in Crossing Pelham Driveway and Are Run Down by Wall Street Broker's Car.

! One boy was killed and another mortally injured to-day on the Pelham Driveway, about 100 feet east of the Bronx River, by a big touring car belonging to Mulford Martin, a broker, of No. 7 Wall street.

Mr. Martin was on his way to his home at Rye, N. Y., in the car, which was being driven by Clarence Lea, of Rye. In the tonneau of the machine were Stuyvesant Wainwright and E. Frank Wood, of New Michael Amtonilli, the boy who was killed, was a five year old youngster. With a nine year old friend, Felix Gangilio, he was playing in a clump of bushes at the roadside as the car approached. For some reason the boys ran out into the road as the car sped toward thme. They became confused and in a second the front wheels had run down Michael.

Mr. Martin picked up Martin and the others picked up Felx and carred them to the car. Mr. Wainwright took the for the Fordham Hospital, s- mile and a half away.

The car with its two unconscious occupants dashed up to the hospital in guests ran up the steps with the boys in their arms.
